

Instant holidays

Devon Motor Caravans

Devon Conversions present their 1980 Moonraker and Sundowner models, based on the new Volkswagen Transporter.

A VW Devon Motor Caravan means instant holidays. The freedom to go wherever you want. The freedom to go whenever you want — no reservations needed.

And, of course, you're completely independent. Come and go as you please. Stay on holiday as long as you like. Children or pets? No problem.

A VW Devon makes economic sense too. With holiday costs continually rising, your Devon Motor Caravan will prove a sound investment. What's more, your Devon Motor Caravan can become an instant saloon car, minibus, shopper, delivery van or even spare room.

The Volkswagen name means quality and reliability, backed by a worldwide dealer service network, and with over 24 years' experience, Devon are Britain's leading Volkswagen Motor Caravan converters.

The new Devon Moonraker 80

Comfortable and adaptable seating.

The rear-facing single seat extends to become a 2-seater for dining. Lift off the cushion and there's plenty of storage space beneath.

The rear bench seat faces forward and comfortably seats two or three people. At night it pulls out easily to complete a large double bed — the rear seat and engine deck cushions together forming a deep foam mattress. The rear bench seat locker provides ample storage space for bedding.

At meal times the centre leg dining table is simply located between both sets of seating.

Plus a generous helping of luxury.

Rich carpet-style trim covers all interior panels — in dark brown up to window level and in beige above.

The button deep foam cushions are upholstered in a patterned fabric with a luxurious soft-as-velvet pile. Curtains are fitted to all windows, running on a continuous curtain track. Flotex covers the floor — a unique carpet which combines wear and stain-resisting qualities with luxury and warmth. Cushions, curtains and floor carpet are all in toning colours.

Brushed nylon seats with head restraints add a touch of luxury for the driver and passenger. At the offside rear there's a wardrobe with a hanging rail and a small shelf.

Sleeping arrangements designed for really sweet dreams.

In the Moonraker's 'Double Top' elevating roof there are two solid-based mattresses. Use them as twin beds for the children or push them together to form a double bed.

There are no unstable overhangs, raised or lowered. You'll sleep safely and soundly.

The roof vent ensures a fresh air supply and is fitted with a fly screen.

The sleeping arrangements in the elevating roof, together with the daytime seating which converts into a large double bed, mean that the Moonraker can sleep four people in real comfort. A cab bunk suitable for a young child is also available as an optional extra.

The Devon 'Double Top'

The Devon 'Double Top' fibreglass roof runs the full length of the vehicle, yet is simplicity itself to raise. Gas filled struts assist, holding the roof open and taking the weight when closing. To raise, just give an initial push and the roof opens of its own accord. It's just as easy to close.

Finishing touches.

Additional storage space is provided by the roof locker and also above the engine compartment, and the Moonraker comes equipped with plenty of interior lighting.

A 34 litre (7½ gallon) capacity water tank is fitted which can be filled in situ or removed and wheeled to a water supply.

Well designed kitchen and storage unit.

A complete kitchen and storage unit is fitted along the offside of the vehicle. The top of the unit is a useful worktop/shelf made from heat-resistant melamine, divided into three hinged sections.

The first section lifts to reveal a stainless steel sink unit and draining board with faucet and electric push-button water pump. An optional refrigerator can be fitted beneath the sink. There are also two cupboards — one large, shelved and with a pull-out cutlery drawer.

Concealed neatly beneath the lid of the middle section is a two-burner gas cooker with a grill and heat shield. A hinged flap drops down to provide a handy work surface whilst the cooker is not in use. Beneath the cooker there's a second large, shelved cupboard.

The end section is a deep storage locker, with a gas bottle storage cupboard beneath, vented to the outside air. The portable cool box (when an optional refrigerator is not fitted) is stored in this locker.

The new Devon Sundowner 80

Just right for carrying passengers in style.

The Sundowner carries up to eight people in comfort on short trips or long journeys.

There's a rear bench seat for two or three people, with a single seat adjacent to it on the nearside. The two-seater front bench seat has a reversible backrest so passengers can face the front or rear: the seat can also be adjusted backwards or forwards.

The cushions are deep foam, upholstered and buttoned in a soft, patterned velour which echoes the interior colour scheme of dark brown and beige.

Perfect for short break holidays and family outings.

There's an adaptable dining table for use inside or for a picnic outside the vehicle. For internal use the table top is located below the offside window, and supported by a single screw-in leg. Space for sitting around the table is created by sliding the front bench seat away from the rear seat.

For cooking there's a portable gas range with two burners.

When not in use, the gas bottle is stored behind the backrest of the single seat in a storage cupboard vented to the outside.

The Sundowner has lots of storage space, including a wardrobe with a hanging rail.

Both bench seats have spacious cupboards beneath their cushions, and there's lots of space in the engine deck storage box. Two fresh water tanks are stowed at the rear of the vehicle, each holding 11.5 litres (2½ gallons), and there's a washing up bowl too.

Other ingredients include plenty of interior lighting, an attractive carpet-style trim to walls and ceiling, a patterned vinyl floor covering and all-round curtains running on a continuous track.

Happy dreams!

Like the Moonraker, the Sundowner has the 'Double Top' elevating roof with the two solid base mattress bed sections which can be used separately as twin beds for children, or, as a comfortable double bed when pushed together.

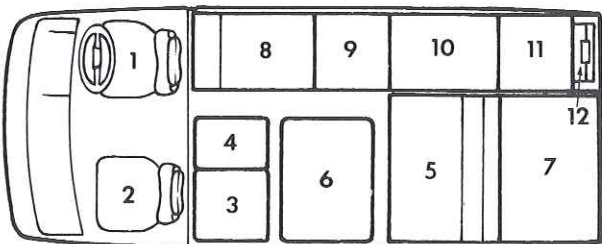

Downstairs the rear bench seat pulls out easily to complete a large double bed — the rear seat and engine deck cushions forming a deep foam mattress.
